Washington Correspondent of the Boston Globe Understands That Naval Committee Has Favored Us With Big Appropriation.

There is good news for Portsmouth from Mr. A. Maurice Low, the Washington correspondent of the Boston Globe. In that paper today is the following dispatch from that gentleman:

WASHINGTON, D. C., March 16.—It is understood that the naval committee has dealt most generously with the Portsmouth navy yard, and the navy yard and the naval appropriation bill will contain a clause appropriating a sum large enough to almost reconstruct the yard. The exact amount at this time cannot be determined until all the various sections of the bill are made up.

A member of the New England delegation, in speaking of the appropriation, said:

"It is hardly likely that any ships will be built there this year, but the chances are that construction will be commenced both there and in Boston next year. I realize that outside firms can build ships for the government cheaper than the government can itself, but I believe that there should be some government yards which in the case of an emergency will be very necessary and useful."

"In time of war, when private yards are busily engaged in building war vessels, the government yards can be making the necessary repairs to our vessels which would otherwise have to be taken out of action or if they had to be repaired at the private yards they would delay the completion of new ships."

"In such an emergency time means everything and the cost is not to be considered. Though it looks at present as if the government yards were under the ban I do not think that will last and I think in years to come the government will build some of its vessels in its own yards."

FAST DAY, APRIL 19.

Governor Rollins Issues the Proclamation For the Holiday.

Governor Rollins has issued the following proclamation for Fast day:

I hereby appoint Thursday, April 19th, as Fast Day, and call upon the people of our state to observe it in its true and best sense.

When the country was in its infancy and dangers surrounded it on every hand, our ancestors felt the need of protecting and guiding power, and sought it prayerfully, leaving us this annual rite as a sacred inheritance. Now that we have attained a strong and lusty manhood, now that we are a vigorous, wealthy people, having safely passed the perils of our youth, we are apt to forget the strong arm upon which our forefathers leaned. Instead of abolishing Fast Day as a worn out and useless custom, I would call our people to a renewed observance and a better appreciation of the real significance of the day.

I would ask that large body of men who seldom, if ever, cross the threshold of a church, to kneel once more where they knelt as children, and see if the church has not some message for them. I believe that a single honest attempt to cast off the blinding and depressing influences of doubt and materialism and to look at life once more through the clear, earnest eyes of youth and in the light of the faith of our fathers, would bring a solace and satisfaction "Like the benediction that follows after prayer."

Given at the Council Chamber in Concord, this sixteenth day of March, 1900, in the year of our Lord one thousand nine hundred, and of the Independence of the United States of America the one hundred and twenty fourth.

FRANK W. ROLLINS,
Governor.

By His Excellency the Governor,
with advice of the Council,
EDWARD N. FRANKSON,
Secretary of State.

CANDIDATE FOR CHIEF ENGINEER.

Ex-Chief Engineer John D. Randall, who made an excellent record as chief under Mayor Tilton, is a candidate for re-election. His friends are out in force and will do their best to land him.

STATE NEWS.

Thursday, April 10, has been named as fast day by the governor and council.

The Rev. William Woods of Exeter has been unanimously invited to return to the Methodist church there for another year.

The Rev. Joseph H. Brown died in Concord Friday morning at the home of his brother, Gen. John H. Brown. He was 66 years of age.

The twenty fifth annual meeting of the Rockingham County Sunday school association will be held in the Baptist church at Plaistow center on Tuesday, May 15. It is requested that all Sunday schools take notice and plan to send delegates.

The father of Francis Truth, the "healer" recently arrested in Boston, lives in Keene, where he is well known. His name is Remis and he was employed on carriage wood work by J. & F. French for many years.

Dolphus Maellott, the young son of Mrs. Mary S. Frellette, who was left behind the bill board at Garrison hill in Dover on Saturday night to die, was taken seriously sick Friday morning and it is feared that the little one may die.

A warrant was issued Friday for the arrest of Henry Hoyt of South Farmington on a charge of assaulting with intent to kill Charles Hill, in that town last Tuesday. Officers left to serve the warrant and a hearing will probably be held today.

The sailboat of Horace Follansbee of Seabrook was found on the Newburyport beach Friday morning with no signs of the owner. He left Newburyport the evening before to cross the river, but owing to the storm and the thick weather it is believed he lost his course and was drowned. He was 45 years of age and unmarried.

The town of Hampton is now required to do without street lights. During the past year, the street lighting has been supported by the Village Improvement society, which met the expense by devoting the proceeds of entertainments given for the purpose, to the cost of illuminating the town. At the town meeting, the voters were asked to raise $300 to all the cause, but retrenchment was the order of the day, and the appropriation was refused. Accordingly, for the present at least, the streets of the town will be in total darkness.

OBSEQUIES.

At the family residence on Dennett street at 1.30 o'clock this afternoon, was held the funeral of Thomas Glazebrook, a large number of the relatives and friends of the deceased being present. The officiating clergyman was the Rev. Robert L. Dustin of the Pearl street Baptist church. The interment was in the Harmony Grove cemetery under the direction of Mr. Oliver W. Ham, funeral director.

The funeral of John Sides, the veteran shipkeeper, was held at the home on Cabot street at 2.30 o'clock this afternoon, Rev. George E. Leighton, pastor of the Church of Christ, conducting the rites. Those assembled to pay their last tribute of respect included many of his former fellow workmen at the navy yard and delegations from the orders of which he was a member. The body was interred in the family lot at the Sagamore cemetery, Mr. Oliver W. Ham being the funeral director.

MARCH AND THE LION.

Something Better Than the Old Saw.

The saying about the lion and the lamb in March often proves false, but there is another and a better one which is literally true. When March comes in and finds you taking Hood's Sarsaparilla to purify, enrich and vitalize your blood, you may expect, when it goes out, that it will leave you free from that tired feeling and with none of the boils, pimples and eruptions which manifest themselves because of impure blood in the spring. If you have not already begun taking Hood's Sarsaparilla for your spring medicine, we advise you to begin today. We assure you it will make you feel better all through the coming summer.

PEARL STREET CHURCH.

There will be the usual preaching service at 10.30.

The evangelistic service in the evening will commence at 7.15 with a praise service and a gospel address by the pastor, upon "Jesus, the Healer." All are cordially invited.

GREENLAND.

GREENLAND, March 17.

On account of the bad traveling of last evening very few members of either of the basket ball teams gathered in the town hall for practice, but what few were there employed their time in goal throwing and some pretty good work was done. The Seminoles will put in some hard work right along until their game with the Uniteds has passed. As yet no fixed date has been set but some evening this coming week the sporting element will have a chance to see the first game in town between outside parties. An admission of five cents will be charged to witness the contest. After the practice last evening vocal and instrumental music was enjoyed for a short time and some very fine voices were heard among them.

Dr. F. W. Pike is reported as being dangerously ill with typhoid fever at the home of his mother on Portsmouth road.

Mrs. Stephen Weeks, an old and very highly respected lady, passed away yesterday morning at 11 o'clock at her residence on the Bayside road. Mrs. Weeks has been ill for a considerable long while and the end had been looked for many days.

Charles F. Marden is making a short visit in Boston.

The young people of the Christian Endeavor society held a conversation party in the town hall Thursday evening and a very pleasant evening was reported as being passed.

Dr. William O. Jenkins was a visitor in town yesterday morning.

Work on the bridge on the Boston & Maine railroad grade crossing on Breakfast hill road is rapidly progressing.

It is certainly very quiet in the Mukokee (beg pardon, did I pronounce that right) circles. Cheer up comrades, perhaps you might be able to secure games with the Y. M. C. A. of Portsmouth.

We noticed that the Delapheons had dropped from the city basketball league. Too bad, for the Greenlands had begun whetting their scalping knives.

JONES vs. LAWSON.

The rivalry between the stables of Frank Jones of Portsmouth and Thomas W. Lawson of Boston will be quite interesting the coming campaign. It will be New Hampshire against Massachusetts and both stables will start out with larger aggregations than were ever made up by any stables in the east. The number and quality of animals that each stable has to draw from is something remarkable, and it has done more than any one can realize in advancing and fostering the interest in the production of the light harness horse and infusing new life in the racing world.—Concord Monitor.

"CARRY SUNSHINE WITH YOU." A bright, fresh, sunny face is always inspiring, and it always denotes good health as well as a happy heart. Many faces that were once overcast with gloom have been made bright and sunny by Hood's Sarsaparilla which cures all dyspeptic symptoms, strengthens the nerves and tones up and invigorates the whole system.

Constipation is cured by Hood's Pills, the non-irritating cathartic. Sold by all druggists.

AN OFFICE FOR DEWEY.

To Be President of Naval General Staff.

BOARD OF NINE HIGH OFFICERS.

Six Chiefs of Departments to Be Ex-Officio Members—Three Other Members Will Be Taken From the Line, Duties of the New Board.

Washington, March 16.—To increase the efficiency of the navy and to prepare the service for operations in case of war Secretary Long has decided to organize what will probably be known as a policy board, of which Admiral George Dewey will be president.

The formal order announcing the creation of the board and giving instructions as to its membership and duties will be issued in a few days.

The order specifies that the incumbents of these positions shall always be attached to the board: The admiral of the navy, the chief of the bureau of navigation, the chief of the office of naval intelligence and the president of the naval war college.

The officers holding the foregoing positions are Admiral George Dewey, Rear Admiral A. S. Crowninshield, Captain Charles D. Sigsbee and Captain Charles H. Stockton. There are five other members of the board whose rank is designated, and officers holding such rank will be ordered to report for duty as members of the board.

The remaining five members will be selected by Secretary Long after the orders have been issued. Naval officers who are acquainted with the fact of the proposed organization of the board believe that Rear Admiral Sampson will be designated as a member and that Rear Admiral A. S. Barker, commanding at the navy yard at Norfolk, will also be attached to it. Captain R. D. Evans, Captain H. C. Taylor and Captain F. E. Chadwick are also spoken of in connection with the board.

Duties of the Board.

The board is expected to devise plans of strategy, to arrange for the distribution of ships and the strength of vessels on foreign stations and to take all needed measures for the defense of the United States in time of war.

It will assemble in Washington once every month and will make recommendations to Secretary Long. To leave Admiral Dewey unrestricted in his movements the order prescribes that in case of his absence the chief of the bureau of navigation shall act as president, and in the absence of both officials the chief of the office of naval intelligence shall serve in this capacity.

There is a disposition on the part of naval officers to believe that the board's duties will be eventually enlarged until it will consider all important naval questions which may come before the department.

It is not believed that the department has yet considered with Admiral Dewey as to his acceptance of the duty of president of the policy board, but the department believes that he will accept it, especially as he is not now on active service.

Eight Hour Shifts For Servants.

Chicago, March 16.—Mrs. Emma Blaine has organized her household on labor union principles. Her servants work only eight hours a day, a system having been adopted which divides their duties into "watch" or "shifts." The innovation applies to cooks, maids, butlers, laundresses, coachmen and all the others belonging to Mrs. Blaine's establishment. Those whose duties begin at 6 o'clock in the morning are relieved at 2 o'clock in the afternoon by a force that stays on watch until 10 o'clock at night. The system was introduced about ten days ago and is said to have proved highly satisfactory. It is said to have been suggested to Mrs. Blaine by Professor Patrick Geddes of Edinburgh, who lectured in Chicago two weeks ago. Mrs. Blaine's action has caused some concern among Chicago housekeepers, who fear that domestic servants will now begin a troublesome agitation for shorter and more regular hours.

Fights With Yaquis Magnified.

Merida, Yucatan, March 16.—Many exaggerated accounts of battles with the rebel Indians have been telegraphed abroad. Movements of federal troops have been magnified into offensive advances when usually they have been mere transfers of troops or the taking possession of new military posts. The Indians are really far from being united in a body and are not in position to offer any serious opposition to the federal troops in the Indian districts. They have not been able to sow any grain or do any planting this year, and probably before long they will be in need of the necessities of life.

Needle Taken From Appendix.

Hartford, March 16.—An ordinary sewing needle 2 1/2 inches long was taken from the appendix of a young woman patient at St. Francis hospital yesterday. The find was a revelation to the doctors, none of whom ever heard or saw such a phenomenon. The patient was operated on for appendicitis. The young woman swallowed the needle several years ago, but only recently felt results. She will probably recover from the operation.

Turkey Is Anxious.

Constantinople, March 16.—There is great anxiety in official circles here regarding the Russian government's refusal to meet its demands regarding railroad concessions in Asia Minor. The Turkish government advises against submission, and the sultan is awaiting a military report on the strategic aspect of the question before giving a decision.

Currants, as most people are aware, come from Corinth. They are a variety of the grape family. The currants grown in America come from north Europe, Canada and England.

IDENTIFYING SIGNATURES.

A Man May Easily Make a Mistake About His Own.

The general opinion is that it is an easy matter to identify a signature, and there are few people who would not say with positiveness that they could identify their own signatures under almost any conditions. A discussion by some lawyers the other day makes it appear that a person cannot at all times be sure of his signature, because of the necessity to which the forger has brought his art.

One of the lawyers said that no man could safely go upon the witness stand and swear that a signature shown him was his signature. He claimed that in the identification of a signature a person was largely influenced in his decision by the quality of the paper upon which the signature was written and by what preceded or followed the signature. If the name was written on a blank piece of paper, like that in common use, the lawyer claimed that a witness could not swear with any degree of positiveness that the signature was or was not his own.

In support of his argument the lawyer said that handwriting experts claim that no person can write his name twice exactly alike, and that in any litigation where signatures are in dispute and two signatures appear that are exactly alike, the experts will pronounce one of them a forgery. It may be true that in general no two signatures are exactly alike, but in saying that no two signatures were ever made alike, the experts mean that the loops of the letters and the distances between them will not be the same, distinctions which can be determined only by a system of close measurements. In support of this theory the experts take the case of a farmer who is in the habit of going from his house to his barn at about the usual time every morning. They say that not once in a hundred times will he walk in exactly the same tracks.

Another lawyer told of an experience he had in the trial of a case in Tolland county 25 or 30 years ago. A note was in contest, and a question was raised as to the genuineness of the signature. George P. Bissell was called as a handwriting expert. He testified that the signature on the note was a genuine signature. For the purpose of testing his ability as a handwriting expert while on the witness stand he was given a piece of paper and asked to write his name three times. A blank space was left between the signatures. Mr. Bissell did not know for what purpose he was asked to write his name, and after the paper had been handed to the lawyer who examined him it was given by the lawyer to an expert with the pen. The expert wrote the name of Mr. Bissell on the paper three times, and after this was done Mr. Bissell was recalled to the witness stand, and the paper containing the six signatures was handed to him. He was asked to point out the signature that he had written. He endeavored to do so, but not one of the signatures was picked out as having been written by himself was his writing. The three selected were written by the pen expert.

Reference was made during the conversation to a trial which occurred in Washington, where a will was in contest. Several experts on handwriting who testified at the trial claimed that the will was in the handwriting of the testator. It was proved, however, that the entire will had been traced. One of the relatives of the deceased had found many of the letters of the deceased. Words to put into the will were taken from the different letters and by a chemical process reproduced in the document which made the will. John Sherman's name was signed as one of the witnesses of the will, and it was also proved that the signature had been taken from a signature which Mr. Sherman had placed to an article in General Grant's "Memoirs of the War."

The conclusion which the lawyers came to when the discussion ended was that it is not such an easy matter to identify signatures as many people imagine.

Kauri Gum.

New Zealand is a country rich in the great variety of its forest trees—most of them useful, all beautiful, but none to compare with kauri pine either for stately beauty or commercial value. This noble tree attains a height of nearly 200 feet and a diameter of 15 or more. Its stem, or barked, as the bushmen call it, rises from 30 to 70 feet without knot or limb and then branches into an even head of dark green foliage. At the place where it forks the stem is almost the same in circumference as it is six feet from the ground, and as it has a bark colored in various shades of red or brown it gives one the impression of a beautiful pillar at the entrance to some woodland temple.

Every tree is surrounded by a mound of fibrous soil consisting of decayed leaves, bark, etc., the accumulation of centuries, for the kauri is extremely slow in its growth. These mounds rise from two to six feet in height, according to the age of the tree. But the most remarkable thing about the kauri is the quantity of resinous gum which is shed from every part of it. This gum hardens rapidly on exposure to the air, eventually becoming clear and almost transparent.

THE PARISH PRIEST.

The following is an editorial from the Syracuse, N. Y., Catholic Sun of recent date. The play to which the comment alludes is the Parish Priest with Daniel Sully as Father Whalen:

"The large and representative audience at the Westing to witness the production of the Parish Priest speaks highly for the dramatic talent of the young author, Mr. Hart. The author's aim to elevate and unify the stage and thus reproduce the sunny side of life's enigmas, has been fully realized in this latest production and it will undoubtedly meet with due approval everywhere. It represents to us, not the tragic scene of city life, but rather reproduces the tranquil scene of country life in Pennsylvania, where love and fidelity are shown to run counter to ambition's sting. The title of the play is misleading, for nothing derogatory to any faith or creed enters into it; but to the purely religious mind the part taken by Mr. Sully would tend to impress upon an audience the secret power of the priesthood that protects the innocent, calms the irascible, checks an ambition that misleads, and which by a kind word well directed and aptly chosen lines the cloudy side of anger with the silver painting of peace and joy.

"Mr. Sully shows a marked intimacy with Catholic life and would seem to reach in this, his chosen part, the climax of his stellar career. In a word, whilst the plot is unique and preserves the interest till the curtain finally falls, the many moral and religious lessons it imparts will be a permanent benefit to society! We wish Mr. Hart every success and trust that in the future he will always maintain that ideal of elevating the moral tone of the stage and drive therefrom everything that tends to lower human nature.

"The stage is effective of much good, but it can never achieve the function till pure and conscientious minds be its rulers."

TO BE REPEATED.

The Kittery High school will repeat their drama, A Rank Deception, in Westworth hall, that town, on Monday evening. It will be remembered that at the opening night of the recent fair there, at which time the drama was first given, it was one of the worst nights of the winter and the repetition will give many who did not attend an opportunity to witness this pleasing amateur piece.

WORKING NIGHT AND DAY.

Danger in Delay.

Only a little backache,
'Tis the first symptom;
Tells you the kidneys are sick
They are crying for help.
Neglect—delay—
The ache increases,
Then 'tis serious.
Urinary troubles follow,
Retention of the urine—
Excessive discharges—
Painful passages.
Don't wait until too late,
The early symptoms are easily cured.

But it's a hard fight
When diabetes sets in;
When Bright's disease
Has taken hold.
Take Doan's Kidney Pills
With the first sign of kidney ills.
Relief will be prompt—cure certain.
Don't wait till it's chronic.
There's too much danger in it.

"Keeping Tab" On The Kidneys.

Watch the Urine, it should have the amber hue of health; if 'tis a dark, reddish color, contains a "brick dust" like deposit, if the discharge is infrequent or excessive the kidneys are sick and need assistance. Neglect means Diabetes—Bright's Disease.

Doan's Kidney Pills

cure every form of Kidney ills—cure all symptomatic pains and aches of sick kidneys; cure the aching back, the lame, the weak and painful one.

Daniel Street.

Mr. James Snow of No. 5 Daniel street, assistant undertaker at Noker-son's, says: "I was under the care of physicians, but their medicine did me no good. I took any quantity of advertised remedies, in vain, seeking for a cure. I had gnawing pains in my back that stuck to me nearly the whole time and a tenderness and soreness over my kidneys that made any sudden movement agonizing. Deafness in my head and that tired feeling haunted me. I wore more plasters than would fill a trunk and yet I did not take a whole box of Doan's Kidney Pills when the aching and lameness was gone. I tried so many medicines, and had experienced so much that I have no hesitation in saying that Doan's Kidney Pills are ahead of anything I have ever used, and if I am ever troubled again and I may be, I know what to do."

The proof of this is positive,
The testimony of friends,
The evidence of neighbors,
The public statements

PORTSMOUTH PEOPLE.

Cass Street.

Mrs. C. B. Gould, 12 Cass street, says: "Reading one evening in a newspaper I came across an advertisement about Doan's Kidney Pills and it occurred to me that they would be good for my son. He had weak kidneys for years, having been injured by a toss from a cow. For a long time after the mischance it was thought that he would not recover, and when he was able to get around his kidneys were in a very serious condition. Finally it developed into a very bad back, accompanied with urinary weakness, dizziness and pains in the head. I got Doan's Kidney Pills for him at Philbrick's pharmacy in Franklin block. They proved to be the very thing he required. The aching and the lameness in his back stopped, the urinary weakness was corrected, and in all other ways he was improved."

Hill Street.

Mrs. Wm. Bell, of No. 2 Hill street, says: "I used Doan's Kidney Pills, and so did my husband. Both of us received great benefit from them, and we unite in recommending them to others. We read about them in the newspapers, and we were both suffering at the same time; we got a box at Philbrick's pharmacy on Congress street. I was troubled with a grinding pain in my back, dizziness and distress in my head, and lameness in my kidneys. My husband had lameness in the back and the secretions from the kidneys acted too frequently, particularly at night, which greatly disturbed his rest. We commenced using them together, and it was not long before the desired result took place."

The City Marshal.

Mr. Thomas Eastwold, city marshal, says: "I was never troubled very much with my kidneys, but I had a very sharp attack of lameness of the back and pains across the loins. At the same time I got Doan's Kidney Pills at Philbrick's pharmacy I was suffering much distress. It hurt me to make any sudden movement and sharp twinges seized me in the small of the back when rising from a chair. I took but a few doses when I found they were helping me and before I had finished the whole box I was quite free from pain. I have had no trouble since."

Gates Street.

Mr. Charles Kennedy, of 25 Gates street, says: "A few years ago I was laid up with rheumatism for over two months so that I could not get out of the house. I never regained my former strength and my kidneys are apt to become sluggish. During the winter I was taken with a very lame back and the constant ache made me miserable. I was so sore over my kidneys that I could hardly pick up anything from the floor, and twinges caught me in the back that were excruciating. I went to Philbrick's pharmacist on Congress street for Doan's Kidney Pills; after I had commenced to use them I gradually grew better till the lameness and soreness entirely disappeared."

That's The Spot.

Know the spot?
Right in the "small" of the back
Just above the hips.
Bad place for pain.
But it always comes there
When the kidneys are sick.
Comes in many forms,
Sharp, quick twinges,
Slow, exhaustive aches.
Always starts in the one spot.
But it don't stop there—
The ache goes on,
Goes on up the back—
Follows the nerve centers.
You call it all backache;
Ought to call it kidney ache,
Because it comes from the kidneys.
There's a lurking danger in it all.
Never neglect backache.
Never neglect the kidneys' cry for help.
Serious trouble is sure to follow,
Urinary difficulties set in.
Doan's Kidney Pills are for kidneys only.
Doan's Kidney Pills cure backache;
Cure excessive urinary discharges.
Cure retention of the urine,
Cures every kidney ill.

SATURDAY, MARCH 17, 1900.

Is Jernegan really home again?

Sheldon had lots of exclusives but no "scoops."

The latest thing in trusts is that of the snuff-makers. This is a case of pinching the pinchers.

It appears that Senator Davis, of Minnesota, also has an unduly acute ear for the rumblings of calamity.

Mr. Debs is another man who will not vote for Mr. Bryan this year. Mr. Debs will be loyal to himself.

The society for the suppression of unnecessary noises will get Senator Mason if he doesn't watch out.

While the good die young, it is to be noted that the Hon. Haze Pingree boom for vice president is still alive and kicking.

"Beauty," declares Lillian Russell, "is an accident." Is it not about time for Lillian to take an accident insurance policy?

Many desirable baseball players are being sold just now, but after awhile the people who attend the games will be sold.

Europe is evidently on the eve of a coal famine. This condition is bound to add fuel to the flames of industrial competition.

Perhaps public opinion will not be fully satisfied until Editor Sheldon publishes a portrait of the manager of his circulation affidavits.

Kentucky will probably never enjoy the blessings of permanent peace until she begins to indulge in fewer governors and more school books.

One of the unpleasant possibilities is that after Brother Sheldon has got through with the undertaking, he may insist upon lecturing about it.

Thanks to the frequent trips of Mr. Bryan, the state of Texas is acquiring quite a reputation as a recuperating station for overtaxed statesmanship.

From western despatches we learn that Kalamazoo won't have Sapiro. Artists who had meditated a dramatic assault upon that town are hereby warned to keep off the celery patch.

There is a suspicion that the picture of Grover Cleveland in the democratic convention hall next July would cause one of the worst whisker-twisting cyclones that ever ripped up grass in Kansas.

That silver question which Bryan claimed was one of the eternal issues of truth and justice, turned out to have been merely a temporary hallucination of a party that has conjured up more ghosts than haunt the brain of a madman.

Don M. Dickinson, of Michigan, is punching the republican party so violently that his luxuriant Transvaal whiskers fairly crackle with wrath. This fact is important chiefly because it shows that Mr. Dickinson has finally returned to a state of political consciousness.

The Boston Journal finds very cheerful straw for republicanism, protection and sound money in the municipal elections now being held in northern New England. Maine has furnished several this month, and now comes New Hampshire's turn. Even rock-bottom, democratic Portsmouth has just elected a republican mayor and city council. It is still the fashion in northern New England to fight out these local elections pretty closely on national party lines. So far these contents have any outside significance, it is that the tide is setting heavily republicanward. Keeneboe Journal.

PUBLICITY NOT SUPPRESSION.

One of the facts made prominent by the publication of the Topeka Daily Capital by Rev. Mr. Sheldon as he thinks the Saviour would conduct it, and realized by the best thinkers and workers for good, is that the paper is a complete and blooming failure towards advancing good by suppression and not by publicity.

In this connection the New York World well says that rogues of all kinds and shades should be enthusiastic about such journalism. He announces as his basic principle not publicity, but secrecy and suppression. He declares in effect that a journalist should pursue the policy of a general who would resolutely close his ears against all information of the enemy's strength, movements and plans, and would listen only to the reports of his own officers about the doings of his own army.

It is painful, but it is fact, that this world is a vast battlefield between good and evil. This being the case, it is of the very highest importance that the armies of the good should have the completest, the most accurate and the quickest information as to what the armies of the evil are about.

The journalist is an officer in the department of intelligence of the armies of the good. And whether he is working for his pay or for a principle or for both, or without any conscious motive whatever, or even with a bad motive, so long as he remains true to the fundamental canon of his creed—"Publicity! Publicity!"—he is serving the cause of the good. When ever from any motive, good or bad, he violates that canon, he is a traitor to that cause, a giver of aid and comfort to the enemy.

The Rev. Mr. Sheldon and all the advocates of the journalism of censorship and suppression would do well to ponder the remark of an eminent journalist, now dead:

"Whatever God Almighty permits to happen in His world and among His creatures, I am not ashamed to print."

STREET CHAT.

"We don't get many Florida oranges this winter," said a local fruit dealer. "Most of them are California navel. Two years ago, frost injured the Florida trees and as it takes several seasons for a frost-bitten tree to recover its vigor, Florida fruit has been scarce ever since. It is too bad, because the oranges from that state are sweeter and more palatable than the California product."

It is strange how the term "Pullman" sticks to the train that passes through Portsmouth toward the east at 8:45 every evening. This name is a relic of years ago. It used to be called the "boat train" and went through so as to make connections at Portland with the steamer for points further down along the Maine shore. But by the construction of railroads into Maine, the boat connection became less important and gradually this name left the train. Then came the introduction of the sleeping cars, and as this was one of the very few trains on the Boston & Maine that necessitated sleeping accommodations, it came to be known as the "Pullman." This still clings to it. It has been perpetuated from one generation to another, for the life of a Pullman car is about that of a generation; so now when a Portsmouth resident speaks of the "Pullman," he always means the one leaving here at seven in the evening, although every other through train on the Eastern division has one or more Pullman coaches attached to it.

Continental Powers Hold Aloof

From Boer-British Mess.

None Of Them Looking For Burnt Fingers.

The Pope Asks The Queen To Stop Further Blood Spilling.

LONDON, March 17, 2:30 A. M.—It is now known that all the Continental powers, with but one exception, have most emphatically refused to intervene in the South African war. That exception is Russia, whose reply was couched in less decided terms than the others, although she, too, made apparent her intention of declining to assume any responsibility as a mediator. It is said that the pope was also asked to use his good offices toward ending the war, but that he did no more than to write to the queen, asking her to put a stop to the further shedding of blood. The efforts of Dr. Leyde, the continental agent of the Transvaal, to secure the intervention of King Leopold were also futile. The probability of the destruction of Johannesburg by the Boers is being discussed with interest. It is thought that the French and German stockholders in the properties there would protest effectively against such action.

From "Bobs."

LONDON, March 16.—The war office has received the following dispatch from Lord Roberts: "Elements crossed the Orange river yesterday. The repairs on the railroad bridge at Norval's Post have commenced and it will soon be ready for traffic. Tele-Carew telegraphs me that he has arrived at Springfontein, so now Bloemfontein has rail communication with Cape Town. My proclamation is already having an excellent effect. Several hundred burghers have announced their intention of giving up their arms and returning to their occupations."

On Free State Soil.

YANKEE, March 16.—The bridge across the Orange river is completed. The British have crossed and are now bivouacking on Free State soil.

Kruger Annexes Free State, Perhaps. PORTSMOUTH, March 15.—General Galt found that the Boers had fled. The town was practically deserted, the Dutch trekking as soon as they heard of the occupation of Bloemfontein. The telegraph is open to Springfontein. It is said here that Kruger, two days ago, annexed the Orange Free State to the Transvaal republic.

Stampede From Bloemfontein.

LONDON, March 17.—The investment of Bloemfontein by Lord Roberts' army caused a regular stampede from the place. Thirteen trains, each of forty cars, all crammed with Boers, hurried northward just before the railroad line was cut. President Steyn escaped by going outside the city at midnight, under pretext of visiting an outpost, and being taken away in a carriage that was awaiting him. The Boers got the bulk of their stores and guns away safely.

Completely Collapsed.

BLOEMFONTEIN, March 16.—It is safe to say that the Boer organization has completely collapsed south of here. The British cavalry patrol could find none of the enemy between Bloemfontein and the Modder river. Altogether, four hundred Boers have come in here to surrender.

How London Sees It.

LONDON, March 17, 2:00 A. M.—With the railroad to the Cape intact, Lord Roberts will very soon be in a position to begin his advance upon Pretoria. His astute political intuition, combined with his bold strategy, have resulted most favorably in calming things in the southern part of the Free State. Making now affords the only anxiety in the South African situation, and as it is known that a force has started for its relief, from Kimberley, good news is expected within a few days. This hope is heightened by the fact that a good portion of this detachment consists of regulars. In the lobbies of parliament tonight, it was reported that Lord Roberts will issue a statement declaring the former system of government in the Free State abolished.

IN CONGRESS.

WASHINGTON, March 16.—After a debate, at times spirited, occupying two days, the senate today passed the Port-Rienan relief appropriation bill. As passed, the measure provides for the expenditure of $2,095,000. The president is authorized to use the money for public education, public works and in other civil directions, in the island. The senate decided to take up the Quay case two weeks from next Tuesday. This was private bill day in the house, under the new rules. Two hours were taken up with a resolution to pay Mr. Swanson $1,769, incurred by him as extra expense in his contest for a seat during the last congress, but the bill was ultimately abandoned. Six minor bills were passed.

GOVERNOR AND COUNCIL.

CONCORD, N. H., March 16.—At the meeting of the governor and council this evening, Edward H. Gilmore of Exeter was reappointed library commissioner. The following nominations of officers in the Second regiment, N. H. M. G., were confirmed: Lieut. Col. J. C. Timson of Claremont; majors, Frank E. Rollins of Dover and George H. Waldron of Concord. Thursday, April 10th, was designated as Fast day. It was decided to give the proposed statue of Commodore George H. Perkins a location on the west side of the capitol.

RING LEADERS PUNISHED.

BORDEAUX, FRANCE, March 16.—As the outcome of the recent riotous demonstrations against the British consulate, in which windows were broken in the consulate and the house of the consul, today three of the ring leaders—two students and a clerk—were sentenced to short terms of imprisonment, besides being fined and assessed the costs of the prosecution.

SHEEHAN DISCHARGED.

Boston, March 16.—The case of manslaughter against Joseph H. Sheehan of Cambridge, who was arrested for causing the death of Carl L. Thorp by a blow on February 27th, was disposed of today in the municipal court, when Sheehan was discharged.

CHICAGO, March 16.—The six-round fight between Frank Childs of this city and George Byers of Boston, tonight, was declared a draw. The sports present thought Byers had a little the better of it throughout.

BOOMING HIS CANDIDATE.

Charles Marcellus has a strong endorsement of the candidacy of General Stephen H. Gale for congress in last week's Exeter News-Letter. General Gale is an able man and thoroughly able to represent this district. His friends are loyal and are counted by the score. The fight will be between Colonel R. N. Elwell, General Stephen H. Gale, Dr. J. A. Greene and Stephen S. Jewett. Exeter will have to first decide whether she is to support Elwell or Gale.

President Tuttle of the Boston and Maine railroad went through here on a special train, on Friday afternoon, toward Boston. He had been on a trip over the Maine Central system.

Neuralgia Cured

Not eased, but cured. Not quieted for a short time, but permanently cured. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People cure Neuralgia by revitalizing the nervous system and restoring the life-giving elements of the blood.

Women who have been tortured for years with Neuralgia and Nervous Headache, who have exhausted the skill of eminent physicians, have been permanently cured by Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People.

Mrs. William Cotter who lives at No. 42 Windsor Street, Hartford, Conn., says: "I was taken with neuralgia several years ago and suffered untold misery. I tried a great many doctors and several remedies but obtained only temporary relief.

"About three years ago I was advised to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People and I did so. The first box gave me some relief, and I kept on taking them. "I used to have to give up entirely and lie down when the pain came on. My face would swell up so that my eyes would close. The pills cured all this and I have had no return of it for the last two years."

"To Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People I owe all the comfort I have enjoyed for the past two years in being free from neuralgia and I am glad to be able to recommend them."

WOODEN TOOTHPICKS

BILLIONS OF THEM USED ANNUALLY IN THIS COUNTRY.

Nearly All of Them Are Made of White Birch Timber in Franklin County, Me.—Portugal's Handmade Orange Wood-Toothpicks.

In polite society it is considered such a serious breach of good manners to use a toothpick before others that naturally one would imagine that the use of these little necessities to the table is rather limited and that their manufacture and sale must represent a very small industry. As a matter of fact, however, not millions but billions of them are annually used in this country. The narrator, of course, is speaking now of those of wooden make and not of quill toothpicks. When there is added to the domestic use of these dental implements the enormous number that is imported investigation discloses the fact that the industry is really a vast one and has reached such proportions that at last American ingenuity has found recourse to the invention of automatic machinery for the rapid and economical production of these thin splinters of wood. For this reason the number of persons employed in the manufacture is comparatively small.

Ninety-five per cent of all the toothpicks made in the United States are formed from white birch timber in Franklin County, Me., and yet scarcely more than 100 persons are employed in the industry in that state. Outside of the Pine Tree State the principal factories are in Pennsylvania, Massachusetts and western New York. Maple and poplar are sometimes used in the manufacture of American toothpicks, but white birch is the standard timber in all the factories. The industry is a very simple one. First, of course, comes the work of the foresters. In the woods of Maine every winter there are great camps of lumbermen engaged in felling and hauling out timber for various commercial uses. Whenever the foreman of a camp comes across a particularly fine white birch tree he orders it cut down and the main part of the trunk laid aside to be reserved for the toothpick factories. When enough logs have been obtained, they are sent to the boom nearest the factory, whence they are hauled by teams. That the vast supply of toothpicks comes from a very small quantity of timber is shown by the fact that not more than 5,000 cords of wood are used in this industry annually.

When the logs reach the factory, they are first stripped of their bark. They are then placed on trucks, moving on rails, and pushed to the automatic machines by which they are cut into veneers, which are thin strips of wood of about the dimensions of an ordinary piece of blotting paper—that is, the strips are about as thick as the toothpicks are intended to be and as wide as the picks will be long. Extreme care must be exercised in placing the logs in the machines so as to have the grain run straight in the strips. The veneers are fed into a machine composed of peculiarly shaped and rapidly revolving knives, the edges of which are as sharp as they can be made. This machine works automatically and with tremendous speed and is so constructed that the finished picks come forth sharpened at both ends at the rate of tens of thousands an hour. It requires only a few weeks for the factories to turn out a supply sufficient to meet the demand for a whole year. Then the factories are shut down again, to remain closed until the following spring. The wages paid to American workers in this industry range from $1.50 to $3.50 a day.

Most of the toothpicks made in Maine come from timber that has been seasoned in the open air and retain something of the natural sweetness of the birch and maple and are soft and pliable while retaining sufficient firmness. Kiln dried wood is apt to result in too much brittleness, causing sharp splinters to break off, which injure the enamel of the teeth. Recently some of the American manufacturers have been putting up toothpicks in miniature barrels highly ornamented by carving or hand painting. These are turned out at the same factories.

The best toothpicks made anywhere in the world come from Portugal. They are whittled by hand from orange wood splinters by peasant girls, the only tool used being an ordinary jackknife. These picks are as smooth as ivory and will not break into splinters. They are supplied. Only one hotel in Philadelphia expresses them. The girls who make the picks receive less than 10 cents a day. As the duty on the foreign made picks is only 85 per cent they can be sold here for less than picks of similar quality could be manufactured in this country, despite the improved American machinery and skilled labor. The profit on American picks is almost exclusively on the cheaper products. Some of the Portuguese picks are highly ornamented with hand carving. They are too expensive for ordinary commerce. Small quantities have been imported into this country on rare occasions for use at notable banquets or as unique specimens of handicraft.

Next to Portugal, Japan sends the greatest supply of toothpicks to the United States. These are made by hand from fine reeds. They are too, are sold in close competition with the American product, owing to the cheaper labor in Japan. The cases in which the Japanese picks are inclosed are fine specimens of skill with the jackknife. They are of wood, cut into strips as thin and delicate as tissue paper, but very strong. The cases are ornamented with hand painted Japanese scenes and are of a size convenient to be carried in the vest pocket. The competition between the Japanese and Portuguese makers on the one side and American manufacturers on the other has become very keen. An importer of toothpicks said recently that the Japanese picks can be made and sold in the American market, cases and all, for less than the cost of the paper boxes that contain the domestic picks.—Philadelphia Times.

POWER OF A TIGER'S EYE.

Experience of a Man Who Utilized an Optic of That Species.

"An English friend of mine," said Frederick Talbot, "was so unfortunate some years ago as to lose the sight of one of his eyes. Indeed that organ was entirely removed and replaced with an artificial one. On his way to the train one day he stopped to purchase a rug, and in bending over to examine it his artificial eye dropped out and broke upon the tessellated floor of the store. It was but a short time before the departure of the train it was imperative for him to take, and, upon his explaining the importance of time to the shopkeeper, he was advised that a taxidermist had a place near door and that he could possibly replace his loss from the stock of artificial eyes kept there to use in mounting the skins of animals. Hastily entering and explaining his predicament to the taxidermist, that worthy placed a array of animals' eyes before him, among which he finally found one that fitted and which had been intended for the head of a tiger. Without glancing at himself in the mirror, he paid his bill, and pulling his billcock hat well down on his forehead he walked the waiting hansom and told the driver to proceed with all speed to the station. Upon his arrival there he handed the driver his legal fare, whereupon the cabby, who had evidently expected a larger amount, treated him to a torrent of billingsgate. Somewhat angry, he looked sternly up at the man, who immediately turned as white as a sheet and with an oath lashed his horse into a run and disappeared around the corner.

"Mystified by the cabby's behavior, but without time to speculate on its cause, my friend dashed for the train, only to be hustled into an overcrowded compartment, after having passed comparatively empty ones, which the guard had evidently been bribed to reserve. Hastily jumping out, he was about to enter one of these, when the guard, with an 'Ere, now, you can't go in there,' seized him roughly by the shoulder. He turned his gaze upon the man, astonished at his rudeness, and the fellow's face became pasty, and his jaw dropped as with a trembling, 'I beg your pardon,' he backed away.

"Without further incident, but unable to account for the manifest terror caused by his appearance, my friend at length reached home. He made his way to his wife's boudoir, and as soon as she saw him she fell in a faint. When he glanced into the mirror, the mystery was explained, and he realized the terrible power of a tiger's eye, especially when looking out of the face of a man."—New York Tribune.

Johnson's Tavern.

Johnson's favorite tavern was the Mitre, which lay, and still lies, between King's Bench walk, at the east end of the Temple and Fleet street. But when Roswell first made his acquaintance they often dined or had supper at the Turk's Head, a tavern in the Strand—not the Turk's Head in Gerard street, where the club met—and kept "by a good, civil woman, who had not much business."

The 25th of June, 1763, was the memorable day on which Roswell first met Johnson at the Mitre. They had both been dining at Clifton's, an eating house in what was then Butcher row, at the back of St. Clement's church and famed for its mutton chops, and they arranged to meet later at the Mitre. "We had a good supper," says Roswell, "and drank two bottles of port." This was often repeated, and poor Boszzy, bon vivant as he was, found the doctor rather too much for him.

They then sat up till 1 or 2 o'clock in the morning drinking port, and Boswell was obliged to admit that those nocturnal convalesces even in the company of the gods affected his nerves for some time afterward. On the 6th of July he gave a supper at the Mitre to Johnson, Goldsmith, Tom Davies, Dr. Ozgillie and some others, on which occasion the doctor uttered his memorable witticism about the noblest prospect which a Scotchman ever sees.—Blackwood's.

Speculate Only on Paper.

The story is told in an article in "The Anecdotal Side of Mr. Beecher" in the Ladies' Home Journal of a member of Plymouth church who had lost heavily in Wall street speculation and failed in business and who went to the great preacher one day and voluntarily promised that he would not speculate for one year. At the end of six months, however, he went to his pastor and asked to be released from his promise. "I can make more in one week than I am now making in a year," he said.

Mr. Beecher refused to release him. "Do your speculating on paper," he said, "and at the end of the year tell me how you would have come out had I let you go."

At the end of the year the doctor, a speculator reported to Mr. Beecher, "If I had actually made those deals, I would have failed three times in the six months."

Beautiful Cities.

Lucerne, in Switzerland, and Garmisch, in Bavaria, have usually been accorded two of the most beautiful towns in Europe. Berlin is considered the healthiest, Stockholm and Christiania coming next, the death rate of these cities, as a rule, being the lowest on the continent. London, too, occupies a favorable position after those mentioned. But places like Rome and Venice run up high death rates. The unhealthiest place in the world is Alexandria. Notwithstanding its unvarying fine weather, its 300 fountains and its soft sea breezes, the death rate there reaches 72.9 per 1,000.—Newcastle (England) Chronicle.

Handy Refuge.

"Does your husband's sprained ankle trouble him any more?"

"Yes; he gets a dreadful pain in it whenever I want him to make evening calls with me."—Chicago Record.

Beautiful this thought, and beautiful the language wherewith Sir Philip Sidney gave it expression, "They are never alone who are accompanied by noble thoughts."

Success is like a chicken; if you get it cooped up, it is well to keep an eye on the coop.—Indianapolis Journal.

RARE VALUE OF HUMAN TEETH.

Looses That Are Taken Lightly and Are Hard to Retrieve.

In the great Malagawa temple at Kandy is a tooth attracting pilgrims from far and near. A special mission was sent from Siam to try to purchase this, a supposed tooth of Buddha. An amount equivalent to $250,000 was offered for it. It is not strange that a portion of the human body should be thus treasured. There are many shrines where teeth are held as objects of worship inclosed within golden caskets and rarely exposed to the gaze of the onlooker.

The average individual values a tooth lightly, and its loss is considered a trivial matter unless it happens to be a front tooth. Not until nearly all the teeth have been destroyed by decay or removed by the forceps does one realize what has happened.

When one tooth has been extracted, you have really lost two. Teeth cut and grind. The grinding teeth may be likened to millstones—one acting upon the other. Remove a tooth, and the opposing organ is without a function. It has nothing to grind against. It will lengthen slightly, as though in search of a mate, and in the case of the gnawing animals the loss of an incisor usually results in the death of the animal. The opposing tooth, elongating, prevents the use of the remaining teeth, or, as frequently happens to rabbits, the tooth, having no work to do, curves upward until it penetrates the skull. Luckily our teeth are limited as to their growth.

The loss of a tooth adds a wrinkle to the face. This is not so apparent perhaps in youth as in middle age, although even in the youthful loss of a cuspid, or eyetooth, is plainly indicated by a line extending from the wing of the nose to the angle of the mouth. This is caused by the shrinking away of the prominence which outlined the root of the tooth.

It is a curious fact that most people in chewing use one side of the mouth more than the other. This can be traced usually to some defect on the unused side, but the habitual use of one side of the mouth is detrimental to the opposite side and to the health generally.

"The strength of an organ depends upon its use" applies to the teeth as it does to any other part of the body. The mastication of coarse food may wear the grinding surfaces, but this does not interfere with the functions, as is shown by the teeth of the Eskimo, ground down in many cases to the gum, yet showing no signs of decay. The same condition may be seen in the teeth of the California Indian. Nature has provided for the wear of the tooth by building from the inside when the pulp which occupies the center of the tooth is approached.—New York Herald.

A Compliment Spoiled.

At a picnic gathering on the banks of the Merrimack Whittier, the poet, had chanced to stray along a wooded path at some distance from the rest of the company, when, coming up quietly behind two little girls in their first teens who had also wandered away from the others of the party, he overheard their conversation. Fourteen is a sensitive as well as an awkward age, and one of the two, a tall, angular girl, was almost crying because she had heard one of the boys say she "looked like a guy in her new dress." The dress was a rather bright, made over from an older sister's, and her own anxious suspicions (that it was unbecoming) were thus cruelly confirmed.

"What's that?" said the other girl. "Whittier broke in benevolently. 'These people think that a rude boy says about it. Mary, these looks very well indeed.' Mary began to smile—'under the trees here, and with that bough in her hand. Why, Mary, these looks like an Oread!'

Mary blushed with pleasure, and the poet, with a friendly nod, emphasized his pretty compliment by repeating: "Like an Oread, Mary, dressed all in green. Does that know what an Oread is?"

Poor Mary! She was not very sure what an Oread was, but she knew only too well the color of her dreadful dress. She had forgotten that Mr. Whittier was partially color blind and could not distinguish between green and red.—Youth's Companion.

Nerve Specialists.

A great London physician who sits in his room studying the passing patient crowd like a wise and solid spider looking out over the desert of human life was talking to me recently on the familiar subject of nerves. Mostly one can judge from a man's age what he is going to say about them. Between 25 and 50 he will probably take them very seriously, explain how nerves have, in sporting language, "knocked out" the lacillus as the fons et origo malorum, or the greater number of them, and inundate you with stories of that colossal bore and mischievous worker Charcot. After 50 he will tell you in more or less sweeping fashion that the average nerve patient was beating somnily and that Charcot was the inventor of a new and pestilential craze much stupider, though unfortunately more lasting, than spirit rapping, theosophy or palmistry. A specialist, according to the well known dictum, ought to be a man who knows everything about something and a little about everything. He is, in fact, mostly a man who knows a little about something and nothing about the rest.—London Speaker.

The Wiser of the Two.

"Mary," said Mr. Thomas when a silence fraught with unpleasant meaning had followed his first altercation with his young wife.

"Yes?" said Mary interrogatively.

"When a man and his wife have a difference," said Mr. Thomas, with a judicial air, "and each considers the other at fault, which of the two do you think should make the first advance toward a reconciliation?"

"The wiser of the two," said Mrs. Thomas promptly. "And so, my dear, I'll say at once that I am very sorry."

It occurred to Mr. Thomas that it might have been as well for him to have made the first advance, after all, but he thoughtfully refrained from saying so.—Collier's Weekly.

His Discharge.

A touching instance of the humor which never deserts a true Irishman even in his worst troubles is recorded.

A soldier was seen in the trenches holding his hands about the earthworks. His captain asked:

"What are you doing that for, Pat?"

He replied with a grin as he worked his fingers:

"I'm feeling for a farlough, sir."

Just then a rifle ball struck his arm just below the wrist. Then a queer expression of pain and humor passed over his face as he exclaimed:

"And fash it's a discharge."—London Anecdote.

The attack made upon a gentleman who has done more for the Portsmouth navy yard than any other man in the past thirty years will cause a sensation when it is made public.

ACCIDENT AT THE NAVY YARD.

Mr. Thomas Mitchell of Bridge street, met with an accident while at work on the navy yard on Friday which, although not serious, gave him a severe shaking up. He was ascending a ladder and when about twelve feet up, the ladder broke, throwing him to the ground. He was taken to the marine barracks where it was ascertained that no bones were broken, but he had a bad cut over one eye, and as he is a very heavy man he received a good shaking up.

KITTERY AND LEWISTON.

But Few Gaps in the Electric Line
Between the Two Places.

The approval of the location of the electric road to St. Aspidunk park by the railroad commissioners, marks an important step in the proposed electric road from Kittery to Brunswick. It was learned at the state house, recently, says the Portland Express, that the railroad commissioners did not approve the whole of the location as has been stated by dispatches. There is still a small portion in Biddeford that the commissioners did not approve. This part was over certain streets in Biddeford, but it is probably only a short time before that location will be approved.

The location of the electric roads though the streets is a matter which is left with the municipal officers. They have the right to say which streets the road should run through, and when that decision is reached the commissioners will have their decisions as to which part of the streets the road may occupy.

There is now but a small part of the road between Kittery and Lewiston which is not approved. There is a small stretch of the road from Old Orchard to Portland unsettled and also a small portion from Yarmouth to Freeport. The matter of the road from Old Orchard to Portland is still in the hands of the court, the point by which the road is hung up being fully decided at the time the matter went to the courts.

THE NEW FERRYBOAT.

Work on the Craft Being Rushed as Fast as Possible.

Work on the new ferryboat for the Portsmouth, Kittery & York Street railway company is being rushed as fast as a large gang of men can do it. The contract requires that the hull must be ready to receive the boilers and engines by the first of May.

The boiler capacity at the P. K. & Y. power house was increased one third this week by the addition of another of the boilers such as are used there.

All the rolling stock is being overhauled and put in first class condition for the summer rush which is expected will be the heaviest in the history of the road.

TO MEET HERE.

Rockingham County Republican Club
Will Bring Some Good Speakers.

The Rockingham County Republican club will hold a quarterly meeting in the county courthouse in Portsmouth on Tuesday afternoon, March 27, at 1:30 o'clock.

Attorney General Edwin C. Eastman of Exeter, S. S. Jewett of Laconia and Dr. J. Alonzo Greene of Moulton borough have accepted invitations to be present and address the club.

OBITUARY.

Aaron Pinkham.

Aaron Pinkham, born at Dover Point, died on Thursday night in his seventy-fifth year. He had become well to do from devotion to brick manufacture. He was twice nominated by the democrats of Dover for the mayoralty.

He is survived by his daughter, Mrs. John P. Winkley, and by two brothers, Alonzo and George R. Pinkham, both of Dover Point.

Mrs. Katherine F. Russell.

Mrs. Katherine F. Russell, wife of Charles E. Russell, Jr., of Hancock street, died Friday night at the age of thirty-six years. Mrs. Russell was highly regarded by a large circle of acquaintances and the husband has the sympathy of all in his loss. The funeral services will be held at the home on Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock.

Mrs. Ellen H. Weeks.

Mrs. Ellen Henderson Weeks, widow of Stephen M. Weeks of Greenland, died at her home in that town on Friday night, aged seventy-four years. She leaves two sons, Stephen H. and Edward R., and one daughter, Ellen A., all of Greenland.

THE MCAULIFFE COMPANY.

The McAuliffe company's presentation of Lights of London at Music Hall on Friday evening pleased a good sized audience. The patronage has held out unusually strong through the week, and the indications are that the last offering in the company's repertoire, Escaped From Sing Sing, to be produced tonight, will draw a crowded house.

THEATRE WILL BE CROWDED.

The advance sale of tickets for the entertainment in honor of St. Patrick's day by the children of the Parochial school, indicates that Music Hall will be packed to the doors. Before daylight on Friday there were fifty people in line in front of the theatre.

GOSSIP OF LOCAL SPORTS.

The Crescent and Delapoon club basketball teams practiced behind closed doors Friday evening. The Crescents will not enter the league this season, but next year will find them among the applicants for positions.

The Unity club will probably send its basketball players to Greenland next week to meet the Seminoles of that town. The latter team has several times made the Wapamagos fight for victory, and the Unities will be forced to play hard and well if they defeat the farmers' sons.

The Maplewoods substantially increased their percentage in the bowling league, by defeating the Kearns players three straight strings Friday evening. The hoodoo which clung to the skirts of the Maplewood bowlers all through the early part of the winter, seems to have left them now, and attached itself to the Kearns team. The Maplewoods are glad to be rid of it, but the Kearnses see no reason why they should be its victims.

Currie's chances of finishing a winner in the pool tournament appear to be nil. Previous to his defeat of last evening, there was still a possible chance for him, but now he must play the very best game of which he is capable to even finish second. Woods may perhaps win out, and thus vindicate the honor of the scratch men, but even his chances are not by any means of the best. Lynsky would appear to be the best man to pick for a probable winner.

Exeter has by no means abandoned hope of winning the candle pin series with Portsmouth, but the bowlers of this city think that if their rivals really believe in their own claims, they are victims of misplaced confidence. The Portsmouth representatives have been getting good practice this winter and lots of it, and the team which beats fire picked men from this city must do some crack rolling.

At least one hundred people should attend the basketball league games in Pierce hall, Tuesday evening. Four of the best teams in this section will play, and the very fact that the Woods brothers are to meet the clever Delapoons, not to mention that the crack team of Co. B will appear, should be sufficient to insure the attendance of every man or woman who takes the slightest interest in sports.

The members of the Delapoon club say that the sale of tickets for their exhibition basketball game and dance has been much larger than they had any reason to expect, and promise all who attend a splendid exhibition of scientific basketball, and a general good time besides.

The proposed Unity club dance will take place in about two weeks, although the date has not yet been definitely settled. Following the lead of the Delapoons, the Unity boys will begin the evening with a basketball game, and are now negotiating for a strong out of town team to meet them on this occasion.

People who are interested in bicycle racing, or who were interested two or three years ago, may be glad to know what some of the prominent local riders of days gone by are doing at the present time. Winkley who turned professional in '87, and who was prominent as a pacemaker in '93 and '99, has at last deserted the racing ranks, and is now employed in the office of the American Waltham Watch Co. J. Fred Simpson is a traveling salesman for a large wholesale grocery house, and has been on the retired list for three years. Ira Newick is employed in the office of the Eldridge Brewing Co. of this city, and although he is a racing man no longer, is still prominent in local athletic circles as a basketball, base ball and foot ball player. George Newick is chief engineer for the Eldridge Co., and the only sport in which he will figure prominently in the future is yachting. Shannon has developed into a clever musician, and is now in the south with an orchestra of his own. He has abandoned all branches of athletics. McNally has disappeared from the sight of Portsmouth people, and the same may be said of Urch. Turner and Maguire are also resting on their laurels, and sports no longer interest them sufficiently to induce them to take an active part. Penhallow is in Harvard and is one of the crack hockey players of that university, while Smart has become a railroad man and has no time for bicycle racing.

GENUINE SHAMROCK.

Mr. Frank Connell of Morning street, clerk for W. A. Cullen, the grocer, recovered on Friday, from Ireland, some shamrock, which, when treated to a little water, appeared as fresh as if it were flourishing on its native soil. A spray of it found its way to a desk in the Herald office.

M. E. CHURCH.

Rev. J. E. Robins, D. D., a former pastor of this church and now presiding elder of the Dover district, will preach Sunday morning at 10:30.

A MILITARY FUNERAL.

Portsmouth Should Thus Honor
Memory of Sergt. William Woods.

It is the general sense of the citizens that the city should honor the memory of Sergt. William Woods, the brave Portsmouth boy who died while serving his country in the Philippines, and whose body is probably on the way home from the far away battlefield by this time.

The body will, in all probability, be given a military funeral, and this action would seem to be most appropriate. He was the first Portsmouth boy to meet death while serving in the army since the outbreak of the war with Spain. He did all that could be expected of him, as the others who left here were willing and eager to do, if necessary, give up life for the old flag, and was a hero.

The members of Company B, Second regiment, of the New Hampshire National guard, will take action at their next meeting toward the proper reception of the body and the city should aid them in every way possible to make the funeral a fitting tribute to the services Sergt. Woods rendered.

BOWLING.

The game in the city candle pin league on Friday evening resulted in a defeat of the Kearns team by the Maplewoods, who took all three strings. L. Whitehouse of the Maplewoods succeeded in breaking the record for a three string total, of the Portsmouth alleys, scoring 293. The full figures of the game follow:

BASKET BALL.

At the court house on Friday afternoon an exciting game of basket ball was played between the Slappan club and the Portsmouth High school. The line-up was as follows:

SLAPPAN.		PORTSMOUTH.
Bertha Bennett	forward	Lulu Randall	forward
Emma Russell	"	Dorothy Foster	"
Susan Borthwick	center	Marie Pickett	"
Ide Foote	"	Helen Wood	"
Ellie Goldsmith	guard	Marion Hill	"
Marion Badger	"	Katherine Rich	"

The feature of the game was the excellent goal throwing of Misses Russell and Bennett. Miss Pickett, as jumping centre did fine work for her team.

R. M. Brown was referee and B. M. Bradford and M. A. Manson were umpires.

At the end of the first half the score was thirty three to six in favor of the P. H. S., the final score being fifty two to seventeen in favor of the same team.

MIDDLE STREET BAPTIST CHURCH.

"The Influence of Companions" will be the subject of the fifth lecture in the Young People's course on Sunday evening, March 18th. Cunningham Gaskie, D. D., does not hesitate to say that "anyone could mould the life of a young man if he could prescribe his companions." The choice of companions is of the utmost importance and too much care cannot be exercised by the parents and by young people themselves in selecting their associates. The quartette will sing some fine music and the entire congregation will join in some familiar hymns.
